Bodies Scattered Over One Mile Area as 36 People Die When Huge U.S. Airliner Struck by Lightning

WINONA, Minnesota—Thirty six persons were killed Sunday when a Northwest Airlines passenger plane crashed into a 500-foot Mississippi River bluff during a severe storm. An eye witness said apparently the plane broke up in midair, after being hit by lightning.

Parts of the wreckage were found in swamplands along the river. A few bits landed in a ball park seven miles south of the crash scene. Gordon Clossway, executive editor of the Winona Republican-Herald, who was one of the first on the scene, said the "bodies were scattered over an area of one mile."

CHICAGO—C. C. Plummer, of Flin Flon, Man., and his wife, today were listed among the 36 passengers and crew who died in the plane crash Sunday near Winona, Minn.

HEAVY DAMAGE DONE BY ONT. TWISTER

SMITH FALLS, Ont.—A wind twister, striking like a thunderbolt, roared through this Western Ontario town of 8,500 population Saturday and in a few minutes caused damage expected to run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

It felled more than 200 trees, chopped off electrical power and badly damaged several homes and more than 20 cars. No casualties were reported. The twister lasted for 15 minutes.

RATTLER-BITTEN SHOWMAN FAIR

VANCOUVER—John Conway, 65-year-old employee of Ziegler's Shows, is fighting for his life today after being bit by a rattlesnake he was handling at the Pacific National Exhibition. From Reading, Pa., where he joined the show three weeks ago, he was told not to touch the snakes. His condition is only fair.

KOREAN REDS THREATEN DESTRUCTION

SEOUL, Korea—The Russian puppet regime of North Korea, in a broadcast intercepted by the U.S. Army, threatened "to destroy" the elected government in American-occupied South Korea.

The broadcast heaped abuse on the Korean Republic which was the outgrowth of the United Nations-observed elections in the U.S. occupation zone May 10. "Each of our election cards will turn into bullets to destroy the puppet government of South Korea," the broadcast threatened.

FIND DEFINITE LINK IN SPY HUNT

WASHINGTON—Congressional spy hunt today shifted to New York for Whittaker Chambers' own story of landing a government job while drawing pay as a Russian secret agent. The testimony given at a secret session, led Representative Richard Nixon (Rep.-Calif.) to claim that for the first time the committee has a "definite probable link" between the pre-war Red underground and wartime spy activities related by Elizabeth T. Bentley. The committee served a subpoena on J. Peters, described by Chambers as the head of the Communist underground.

RUSSIANS NOW CAN BUILD OWN HOMES

MOSCOW—A special decree of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet today gave every Russian citizen the right to build his own home. It ordered municipalities to make the facilities available.

Since contracting is illegal as a private enterprise it is likely the government will help with supply and perhaps construct prefabricated houses.

SCHUMAN STRIVES FOR FRENCH CABINET

PARIS—Former Premier Robert Schuman, member of Movement Republicain Populaire, agreed early today to try to form a new French Cabinet after socialist Paul Ramadier failed. Schuman was foreign minister in the cabinet of Premier Andre Marie's coalition government which fell Saturday after a one-month term. Schuman said he would start consultations with party leaders late today.

CALL UNITED STATES OF EUROPE PARLEY

GENEVA—First parliament of the United States of Europe will be held at Interlaken, Switzerland, this week, under the presidency of Georges Bohy, Socialist member of the Belgian Cabinet. The purpose of the meeting is to urge immediate convocation of a constituent assembly for Europe and election by national parliament to draft a federal constitution for Europe.

WHITE COLLAR WORKERS SAVE CROPS

LONDON—Thousands of office workers, clerks, typists, accountants and civil servants joined farmers and farm-hands this week-end in Britain's battle for crops. The city slickers took off their coats and toiled in hot sunshine and when darkness fell the bulk of the harvest in many areas has been gathered.

DIPLOMATS AT KREMLIN NINE TIMES

MOSCOW—The United States, British and French diplomats went to the Kremlin today. This is number nine in the series of meetings, this time with Molotov. Observers believed the meeting might be followed by a release of an interim communique on the secret four-power negotiations.

BERLIN—The Russians applied more pressure today to the anti-Communist government of divided, blockaded Berlin.

The Soviet commandant ordered all residents in the Russian sector to pay taxes only in the Russian zone. These will be used only for the benefit of the Russian sector.

This foreshadowed still another split in the administration, this time the finance department. Soviet tactics already split police, food, fuel and labor departments.

Howling mobs of Communists twice invaded the city hall in the Russian zone last week, trying to force the city council to retract to the Western area and leave the east to the Communists. Meanwhile a break appeared near in the Kremlin talks over the blockade Russia imposed 68 days ago. An announcement is expected soon.

N. CAROLINA READIES FOR HURRICANE

MIAMI—Hurricane warnings were ordered posted from Wilmington, N.C., to Cape Hatteras, N.C., today. A violent tropical hurricane with winds up to 120 miles an hour is expected to reach the North Carolina coastline today.

There was some indication the storm may switch to a more northerly route later, but presently it seems that the full fury of the hurricane would reach the Carolina coast in about 20 hours.

AUSTRALIA GIVES BRITAIN $32,000,000

CANBERRA—The Australian Cabinet recommended a gift of £10,000,000 ($32,000,000) be made to Britain. Last year Australia made a gift of £25,000,000.

Noted Trick Rider

Outstanding cow-punchers in Western Canada and the United States will be taking part in Kelowna's fifth annual stampede on September 6 and 7, and a record number of contestants will be taking part in the show. Highlighting the diversified program will be Anna Lee Mills, noted trick rider. This will be Miss Mills' first appearance in Canada, and is the only girl who has been allowed to race on the Santa Anita race track. In the above picture, Miss Mills is shown performing on her well-trained horse. Several new attractions will be offered stampede patrons this year. The local B.P.O. Elks sponsor the annual rodeo.

Another Grandstand Now Being Built To Handle Large Stampede Crowd

SO CONFIDENT are members of the local Elks organization that a record crowd will attend the fifth annual Kelowna Stampede, that work on constructing another grandstand at the exhibition grounds is now underway. In view of the fact the annual rodeo is less than a week away, work is being rushed to completion, and the new stands are expected to accommodate an additional 250 spectators.

"Rain or shine, the show will go on," declared Bob Phinney, exalted ruler of the local B.P.O.E. No. 52. Mr. Phinney said the Elks had gone to a great deal of trouble in arranging a diversified program, and many new attractions will be offered stampede patrons.

In view of the fact it will be the last Canadian rodeo cow-punchers will have a chance to make points in the Cowboy Protective Association championships, high calibre entertainment is assured, as outstanding cow-punchers in Western Canada and the United States will be coming here.

Ken Thomson, of Black Diamond, Alta., who has been taking part in stampedes for a long time, has been engaged by the Elks to manage the local show, and he is confident next week's rodeo will surpass anything in the Interior. Total of $2,250 will be offered in prize money.

Brahma Steers For the first time Brahma steers will be featured at the Kelowna Stampede. These wild steers have been used every year at the famous Calgary Stampede, and it takes skill to ride and decorate these animals. Scotty Bagnell, noted clown from Arizona will be here with his horse "Tuna", along with Anna Lee Mills, noted trick rider. Over 100 contestants will be taking part in the stampede.

LAKE FAILS TO SUBSIDE

The fact that Lake Okanagan has failed to drop a fraction of an inch since last Thursday will be one of the points pressed by Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games at a meeting of the Okanagan Flood Control Committee at Penticton tomorrow night.

The mayor will be accompanied by representatives of the Kelowna Board of Trade. His Worship said taken to increase the run-off from the lake, serious complications will develop next year.

This morning's lake level was 103.92 feet, 10.8 inches lower than the record high of 104.82.

Starting Life's Battle

Scores of Children will Commence School for First Time in September

When six-year-old Johnny walks doubtfully off to school this fall you'll probably see that he starts off the right way by being well on his feet, and supplied with a new pair of shoes and all the pencils, erasers and exercise books he needs.

But will he then be ready to settle down to his school life with his fellows when his teacher bids him—the same way he begins to run a race when an adult says, "ready, set, go!" From the time he first expressed his personality he discovered that because he should do something it does not necessarily mean he will, especially if he is unable to do so. In particular, strenuously object to stepping from the centre of the stage in his secure home world to the midst of the continuous "schoolroom" battle, good-natured though it may be.

Initial Dangers In what is for most the beginning of a competitive give-and-take life, small people already working under these hardships, who are suddenly asked overnight to play and work according to a schedule, and discipline their bodies and minds to act and think in terms of "instead of." It will be a dangerous change for weak systems suddenly subjected to the germs which go to school, too.

Parental Care In many parts of the province local health services have already examined school beginners and older students for defects during the summer, and have inoculated them against smallpox, diphtheria, and sometimes whooping cough, all of which, if given a chance, could flourish in a crowded classroom. But in areas where this is not possible, parents are giving their children a good start by seeing that they are physically up to par before sending them off to what will be their second home for the next 12 years.

After all, it is in this period that their bodies and minds will develop. Turn to Page 7, Story 1

W. C. CRETIN'S GET-RICH-QUICK HOPES VANISH

William C. Cretin, 21-year-old mechanic at his father's garage on Richter Street, last week had visions of winning a fortune up to $31,000 when a ticket he was holding in the Quebec Unit 33 Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans sweep was drawn on the horse.

But the young bridegroom of a little over two weeks learned Friday, while honeymooning in Vancouver, his horse had been scratched from the Hopelul Stakes at Saratoga, N.Y. He is expected to share in about $60,000 distribution and may receive up to $500 for having drawn a horse.

Mr. Cretin married Miss Isabel Rhodes, also of Kelowna, here on August 11. The young couple were to arrive back in Kelowna some time today.

Early in June, Albert Patten, Kelowna, won over $10,000 on a similar Quebec veterans' sweep.

ELKS LODGE PLAN DONKEY BASEBALL

Kelowna Elks Lodge today disclosed plans have been completed to have Donkey Baseball here on Labor Day in conjunction with the fifth annual Kelowna Stampede.

KEEPING HOUSE IN THE DARK

Yes, she can bake an apple pie like any other good housewife even though she is blind. Housekeeping in the dark is not only possible but practical as is proved by hundreds of blind women in Canada today. Any blind person in Canada is entitled to the services of a home teacher from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. These home teachers, blind themselves, are trained to teach sightless women the safe, efficient way of cooking and keeping house when they cannot see. This is one of the services provided free for the blind people of Kelowna by the money raised in the Institute's annual campaign which takes place this week. A tag day to raise funds will be held on Saturday.

Twenty-four Local Swimmers Presented With Red Cross Awards

PASS EXAMS

Final Tests Conducted by Field Supervisor of Red Cross Society

Twenty-four Kelowna swimmers were successful in the examinations Wednesday of last week that wound up the Canadian Red Cross Society's 1948 swimming and water safety program.

Final tests were conducted by A. R. T. Chetwynd, field supervisor, B.C. Division, Canadian Red Cross Society. Chairman of the water safety program in Kelowna, Maj.-Gen. R. F. L. Keller, paid high tribute to the "grand co-operation" of the Kelowna Aquatic Association, the directors and instructors, for another successful season in Kelowna.

The Red Cross instructional program was in operation this year, also in Okanagan Mission, Rutland and Winfield. Flood conditions and bad weather cut down attendance at the free instructions, General Keller said, but "in spite of that, a good start has been made. Next year the numbers 'should be doubled in all four communities,' he added hopefully.

Successful candidates in the three classes in Kelowna were: Senior—Audrey James, Royce Moore, Susan Griffin, Lois Underhill, Nancy Ellis, Linda Ghezzi, June Wines, Lillian Scantland and Ann Petersen.

Intermediate—Terry Griffin, Peter MacLaurin, Ernest Wiens and Michael Catchpole. Junior—Genevieve Anderson, Marlene Herbestad, Lillian McKenzie, Brenda Carr-Hilton, Toni Carr-Hilton, Jerry Wilson, Marjorie Mussatto, Barrie Boucher, Gerald Geen, Vivian Geen, Glen Geen and Michael Keller.

Presentations of the Red Cross pins and certificates to the successful swimmers will be held at the Aquatic Lounge tomorrow afternoon at 5:15. Dr. W. F. Anderson, Aquatic president, and W. L. Taylor, secretary, will be in attendance. Parents are invited to the presentation.

Gen. Keller lauded the work of the instructors in the four centres, "who make possible the high standard of swimming in this district." Kelowna Aquatic instructors were John Kitson, Miss Belinda Taylor and Miss Jane Stirling. Okanagan, Mission—Miss Kay Selsy.

Rutland—Gary Robinson. Winfield—Miss Joan Husband. Stiff tests for the Royal Life Saving Society bronze and silver medals are expected to be held here shortly, General Keller advised. He said some 10 to 12 Kelowna candidates are expected to try the examinations. Mr. Lugin will be the examiner.

FIRE CHIEFS END FOUR-DAY PARLEY HERE

Fire Chief Joseph Law, Sanich, B.C., was elected president of the British Columbia Fire Chiefs' Association at the closing session Friday of their annual convention and the 17th annual B.C. fire college. Chief Law was vice-president last year.

Chief Gordon Wadell, of Burnaby, was chosen vice-president and W. A. Oswald, retired Hault Moon Bay chief, was named secretary.

In one of the closing sessions of the four-day college and convention here, the assembled delegates decided to hold the 1949 affair at North Vancouver.

Numerous papers were delivered by fire-fighting authorities from all over B.C. and parts of the Pacific Northwest States. Many discussions followed on ways and means to avert fire hazards and expedite other duties of firemen.

Profuse With Thanks The Kelowna Volunteer Fire Brigade, headed by Chief Fred Gore, as hosts to some 50 visiting fire chiefs, were genuinely complimentary for their organization and hospitality.

Spokesmen, during the various sessions and entertainment functions, remarked that the welcome, entertainment and general reception and organization held here surpassed any convention held elsewhere in Canada and the U.S.

Liberals Will Not Oppose Pro-Conservative Candidate Contesting Forthcoming South Okanagan By-Election—Nominating Convention will be held at Zenith Hall, September 15—Several Prominent Conservatives will Allow Names to go Before Meeting

Election by Mid-November

THE LIBERAL organization in South Okanagan constituency will not oppose the nomination of a Progressive-Conservative candidate to contest the forthcoming by-election when a Coalition candidate is chosen at a nominating convention to be held at the Zenith Hall September 15.

This was stated in well-informed political circles this morning following the announcement by W. G. Gillard, of Summerland, president of the South Okanagan Progressive-Conservative organization, that a meeting will be held here to select a man to contest the vacant seat as a result of the resignation of W. A. C. Bennett. Mr. Bennett resigned on May 12 to contest the Yale Federal by-election.

A nominating committee was appointed last week to select several likely candidates for the Coalition candidacy, although nominations will also be received from the floor. The committee includes President Gillard, H. A. Truswell, C. G. Beeston, and A. K. Elliott, Summerland.

In view of the fact South Okanagan constituency has been a Conservative stronghold for many years, Mr. Gillard said the Liberal organization had mutually agreed that it would not oppose the nomination of a Conservative candidate for the vacant seat.

FALL SCHOOL TERM OPENS SEPTEMBER 7

Record Enrolment of School Pupils Anticipated by School Officials

NEW SCHOOLS

A. R. Pollard Believes Supply of Teachers Will Be Adequate

Record enrolment of school pupils is expected when the fall term opens on September 7, while supply of teachers to staff schools in Kelowna and Okanagan District No. 23 is expected to be adequate. Some 3,600 school pupils left their classrooms at the end of June, but this figure is expected to be boosted to around 4,000 mark this fall.

A. R. Pollard, acting chairman in absence of G. C. Hume, stated three additional teachers have been engaged, and two or three more appointments are pending. Number of teachers will probably reach the record high of 120.

Despite an intensive building program during the past three years, classroom space will again be at a premium. New schools are in various stages of construction, but will not be completed until the early part of next year. Several additions have been made in some schools.

Following is a list of school teachers who have been engaged for the coming term: Kelowna Junior-Senior High—W. J. Logie, principal; Miss A. M. Gale; R. E. Flower; E. K. Vernon; W. C. Green; J. F. Holman; R. Turn to Page 5, Story 3

City Businessmen Display Unusual Acting Ability as "Fun for You" Show Provides Ideal Entertainment

Something new in entertainment came to Kelowna when the Kelowna Kiwanis club sponsored a two-day radio show with local talent appropriately titled "FUN FOR YOU!"

Held at the Aquatic pavilion last Thursday and Friday, the show went down a roaring success. The show was a success both financially and from an entertainment standpoint. Merchants in Kelowna and district lent their full support in publicizing the show.

Thursday night show drew a good crowd and the weather man co-operated to a greater extent than on Friday night when of Jupiter Pluvius did his best to rain it out. Despite the rain, a large crowd was on hand. To shield the cast from the Okanagan's new form of sunshine, it was necessary to erect a canvas tarpaulin and the show was a little late starting.

The audience was appreciative of the difficulties however, and as Kiwanis President Harold Johnston said in his thank-you speech, "Vancouver citizens don't let rain get on their minds, they let it bother them so we'll do the same."

Dore Family Scores EVENING HIGHLIGHTS Jack Butt nearly doused while erecting canvas covering. Dave Chapman apparently supplied some of the canvas. Bert Patten's recorded music helped during the delay. Capable M.C. Harry White handled the Harry VonZell role most efficiently and kept things rolling. Only mishap was the reported dunking of the accordion stylist, Joe Baumgartin, of Rutland, who accidentally fell in the lake. The Dore family scored on Friday night, little Vivian Dore being crowned queen of the girls. Then Mrs. Dore won an award when her ticket was drawn. And finally Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Dore were honored as being the

It is understood that several prominent Conservatives will allow their names to stand so that there is no question of "railroading" one Conservative choice alone through the convention. It is reported an equal number of Liberals and Conservatives will be appointed, representing all points of South Okanagan riding. A total of 116 delegates from each party will be represented.

The meeting will get underway at 8 p.m., although the convention will open at 7 p.m. to receive credentials. Hon. Herbert Anscomb, provincial Tory leader and minister of finance, will be one of the chief speakers. It is not known who will speak on behalf of the Liberals. "We will definitely select a candidate to the satisfaction of the Liberals and the Conservatives," Mr. Gillard told The Courier this morning.

Bruce Woodsworth, Westbank school teacher, and son of the late J. S. Woodsworth, one of the founders, has been chosen by the CCF party on South Okanagan riding to contest the vacant seat. While the provincial government has not set a date for the election, it must be held before mid-November, as Mr. Bennett's resignation took effect in mid-May and only a six months' lapse can be allowed, according to provincial enactment.

OYAMA POSITIVE IN REJECTING BEER PARLORS

OYAMA — Oyama residents on Thursday turned thumbs down on plebiscite authorizing the sale of beer by the glass. Total of 238 persons voted, 141 marking their ballots "no", and 97 "yes". Turnout of voters exceeded expectations. Mrs. Gordon McClure was returning officer.

oldest married couple present . . . 43 years. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. James also received special recognition, and only missed out winning the award by a few days. The Dore recipe for a long and happy marriage is "pick the right partner at the beginning" while the James recipe is "don't differ too much and an equal understanding right away." Little Douglas McKay was declared the little boys most popular youngster and duly crowned King. Little Judy Pitt showed no fear and a desire to entertain the audience while on the stage, being interviewed along with other boys and girls by Master of Ceremonies Harry (VonZell) White.

Capable Performer Malcolm Chaplin was ideally cast as Joe Kelly, his deep voice and clear enunciation being easily heard. . . . Howard Faulkner as Dr. I.Q. was also a capable performer and showed apparent enjoyment of his particular part. . . . George Yochim as the Duke of Paducah excelled himself and won a great ovation for his "Tony at da baseball game" rendition and an equally laugh-provoking "Charge of the Light Brigade" in various dialects. . . . Percy Anstey as Uncle Ezra also portrayed a difficult character with skill. . . . Myrtle Powell as Minnie Ford took her part well with just the right accent. . . . Mabel Boyer was especially attractive in her "Tell me a story, Lady" role and captured the fairy-like atmosphere with finesse. . . . Fred Marriage played the piano accompaniment throughout the evening and this added much to the entire program. . . . Bill Wyllie's rendition of L.M.F.T. was also well done. . . . Foster Mills as the Vagabond was one of the highlights of the evening and was encored after each song. . . . The B.C. Ranch Boys supplied excellent western music. Turn to Page 8, Story 2

Lake Level Meeting

Tomorrow evening in Penticton the Okanagan flood control committee will hold its first meeting. The committee consists of the mayors of Kelowna, Vernon, Penticton, the reeve of Peachland and the president of the Oliver Board of Trade. His Worship Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games is chairman. The committee was appointed by a general meeting of representatives of boards of trade and municipal bodies from the border to Vernon, a few weeks ago.

The meeting tomorrow night is pregnant with possibilities. It is hoped that the committee will be in unanimous agreement on one thing, at least. That is the necessity for the immediate implementation of the engineers' report of 1946 recommending certain measures to be taken to prevent flooding in the Okanagan. There would appear to be slight possibility of any disagreement on that score as all Okanagan communities are now fully aware that some measures must be taken to prevent a repetition of conditions experienced this year.

While there may be a unanimity of opinion on the long range program, it is more than possible that there will be a wide difference of opinion on measures to be taken to meet the immediate problem—the lowering of the lake as speedily as possible.

This became evident last week when Penticton City Council moved to forestall any actual implementation of a suggested move by the federal department of public works to increase the flow out of the lake. The federal department had commenced to investigate the feasibility of erecting some temporary dikes along the river between Okanagan and Skaha lakes in order that the flow of water might be stepped up. Penticton has already claimed that this would result in extensive private property damage and would put a section of the city's sewerage system out of operation. The request was made that the outflow from the lake be actually lowered rather than increased.

On the other hand, Kelowna has been sitting in water since May and, as the cold weather approaches and it becomes evident that it will be many weeks before many furnaces can be used, resentment against conditions is at an increased tempo and demands for an increased flow from the lake are becoming more and more vocal.

Before the meeting engineers from the federal public works department are making a survey of the situation and may have some suggestions to make. It can only be hoped that they can find some method of reducing the lake without doing considerable damage to river properties. Their problem during the past week has been further complicated by the creeks in the southern end of the Valley which are running at an unprecedented high and causing the river at Oliver to rise again to the near-danger point.

Much depends upon the meeting at Penticton and upon the report which will be subsequently submitted to Ottawa by Engineers Carruthers and Faulkner. Kelowna has every right to expect some relief quickly. Whether or not this area will get such relief is quite a different matter.

Mr. King's Retirement

It is now becoming obvious that Premier King does not contemplate immediate retirement. Actually, he has never indicated when he would make way for Mr. St. Laurent beyond saying at the Liberal convention that he would have to consider the national and international factors involved in setting his retirement date.

He has now announced that he plans to attend a Commonwealth conference in London in October and that he will represent Canada in the autumn session of the United Nations Assembly in Paris. It has also been intimated that he plans a trans-Canada farewell tour later in the year.

If Mr. King plans either of these tours, to Europe or across Canada, it is evident he will not retire until the end of the year. There is a suggestion that he is waiting for December 29th, when he will have completed twenty-two full years as Premier.

The delay in Mr. King's retirement can serve no good purpose. If he remains in office for the balance of the year, Mr. St. Laurent would have to postpone for four months his creation of a new cabinet, the reshuffling of ministries and the appointment of new ministers. His newly-formed cabinet, containing inexperienced ministers, would have to face immediately an important session of Parliament, possibly a pre-election session full of political controversy.

Then, too, Mr. King's remaining in office and going to Europe meanwhile would make it impossible for Mr. St. Laurent, premier designate, to represent Canada at the Commonwealth conference or at the United Nations

Assembly, even though he is minister of external affairs. Mr. King will attend these conferences and commit Canada to policies, even though he will have no responsibility for carrying them out. Mr. St. Laurent will fall heir to all Mr. King's decisions overseas and presumably must carry out the commitments thus made, though he will not be primarily responsible for them.

Surely, the Canadian people and the Liberal party which chose him as its leader, would prefer Mr. St. Laurent to assume fully now the direction of Canada's foreign policy as prime minister, especially as he is equipped for it by his experience as minister of external affairs. Too, there is the point that if Mr. St. Laurent is compelled to remain Mr. King's understudy for some months, the good impression he has made at the Liberal convention and throughout the country generally will be dimmed and much of his favorable publicity will have been lost to him.

If Mr. King's government were defeated tomorrow, what would follow? Mr. King, within a period of two or three weeks, and regardless of the national or international situation, would give up his prime ministership and hand it over to the leader of the victorious party. Surely, if such action would be possible under that circumstance, it would be possible tomorrow when Mr. King is no longer his party's leader. To hand over the prime ministership to the leader of one's own party surely can't be more difficult than handing it over to the leader of another party.

By remaining in office after he has said goodbye and is no longer party leader Mr. King will diminish day by day his own stature in the public regard and thus write a lame, unhappy postscript to the story of a great career.

Others Have Road Troubles, Too

This year there has been a very considerable amount of unfavorable comment regarding the condition of the roads in British Columbia. Much of the comment has been caused by new construction and the apparent slowness with which the newly constructed roads are finished. Some of the criticism stems from the lack of maintenance, which allows holes to appear in good surfaces, grow deeper daily and remain unfilled. In this area, many claim that there has been no effort to fill the holes in the main highways this year.

Misery loves company, and so the people of British Columbia may obtain some satisfaction from the fact that the people of Ontario are complaining just as bitterly and from exactly the same causes, despite the fact that that province is spending $57,000,000 on its roads this year.

The trouble in Ontario, according to the Toronto Globe and Mail, is that paving costs have skyrocketed so far that the government has decided to spend its money on construction work and not on paving, waiting for paving costs to come down.

One Ontario department of highways' official has pointed out that costs have jumped from the pre-war figure of $10 per cubic yard to $50. As a result this year's appropriation is being spent for new construction and grading which can be done at a more reasonable cost than paving.

One of the roads which is causing much comment in Ontario is the 17-mile stretch from the Peace Bridge at Fort Erie to the junction with the paved portion of the Queen Elizabeth Way at Niagara Falls. The Queen Elizabeth Way, since 1939, has been the pride of Ontario so far as highways are concerned. But the 17-mile tag end has been a matter of controversy and the subject of many deputations for the past two years. It was opened to traffic this summer, but it is far from the first class rating which was expected and prospects are not bright for an early paving.

Whether or not this road is an important one, is illustrated by the traffic figures which show that in 1947 1,136,370 foreign cars entered Ontario at that point. This year's figures, it is estimated, will be considerably higher. They now work out to 3,437 vehicles per day or better than 143 each hour of the year.

But the Q. E. Way is not the only problem highway in Ontario. Another is that from Barrie to Toronto. This project, too, is at a standstill. As a matter of fact the deputy minister of highways stated last week that there were no highway paving jobs under way in Ontario at present, and none was planned "in the immediate future." High costs, scarcity of labor and material shortages were given as the three main reasons for the void in a highway paving program.

All this should give some solace to the B.C. automobile owner. At least in this province there are several construction programs being actively pursued. If they are not advancing as rapidly as we would like, we might console ourselves with the thought that in Ontario this year there is no paving at all.

Trans-Canada Highway

The lack of a Trans-Canada highway is costing Canada large sums of money every year. Had we a first-class artery stretching across the country it would attract a considerable volume of American tourist traffic and keep in Canada the money now spent in the cross-country journeys through the United States.

But we have no such highway; and, apparently, as far as Ottawa is concerned, it will be many a day before we do have one. The King government has always had a negative and non-committal attitude to the question. The Conservative Bennett administration had made some approach to the highway, but since that time except for some basic work done by Ontario, B. C., and one or two other provincial governments there had been no improvement in the route.

Mr. Howe and a couple of other cabinet ministers have recently made some more or less vague comments on the road and Hon. James Gardiner last week spoke at Nelson apparently in support of the newly-suggested route being urged by that and some other cities which would benefit by the change. But Ottawa has always taken the attitude that any such construction work should be done during a depression.

The timing theory for public works is a sound economic principle, but as it is used, or perhaps abused, by Ottawa it has become a political expedient. Indeed, if "timing" is to govern the construction of the highway, why was it not completed between 1935 and 1939? It could have been built then for half or one-third of today's costs. It would have provided necessary employment. It would have been ready to serve the nation during the recent war. It would today be attracting United States tourists.

Under the British North America Act, the construction of highways is a provincial matter. But the provinces, the western ones, particularly, are unable to build a first class highway without some federal aid. It is no secret that the western provinces are unhappy about the failure of federal aid to materialize. Neither is it a secret that during the under-the-table negotiations leading up to Dominion-Provincial taxation agreements these provinces were given the understanding that, if they signed, such assistance would be forthcoming.

Alberta has been forced to construct a first class link in the Trans-Canada from Banff to Calgary. British Columbia, too, has had to spend considerable money improving the Fraser Canyon highway but it is not yet of "Trans-Canada calibre. In addition the Big Bend should be paved and it is unlikely that this province can handle that project unassisted for many years.

Perhaps the St. Laurent administration—when it eventually takes office—will look upon the construction of the Trans-Canada highway in a more favorable light than that adopted by the King government. Canada will never enjoy an adequate highway from coast to coast without the financial assistance of the federal government. And rightly so; this highway could serve a very important national purpose. It is much more than a provincial matter.

Our Town

SUCCESS SCHOOL

Our purpose today is to relay a few inspirational words, in a clear, ringing voice, to any of you poor prunes who feel that Success has forgotten to show up for her date.

They come from F. W. Benwell, a man who looks on life generally as one great selling campaign, and is plunged in a thought of people getting into a rut.

"Millions and millions of them," he remarked morosely in the course of our interview. "Content merely to hold their jobs, afraid to do more than they are paid for. If only they knew any, it is to be above the average."

The magic wand which Benwell waves to transform such depressing drones into potential tycoons is, as you may have guessed, our old friend Salesmanship. But Benwell himself seldom uses that harsh and cold-blooded word.

"Fundamentally," he said, index finger of the right hand laid in the palm of his left, "your success in life is in proportion to your ability to secure willing co-operation from other people."

While we pause to ponder this, little Benwell explained that "Ben" Benwell has been retailing this philosophy to ambitious young business men some 30-odd years. His box-score notes 2500 graduates in his "sales courses."

Benwell, a lean, dapper, sharp-featured gent of 61, takes the broad view of salesmanship. "It permeates every single relationship in life," he said, leaning forward slightly. "Why even the husband in the home must sell the idea he is a good provider and father. And must keep himself sold."

"Too true," too true," I agreed philosophically.

It just happens that Benwell's opinion of the average salesman is pretty low, perhaps even as low as yours and mine. "There are far too many heavy, back-slappers, far too many merely after business, far too many who know little or nothing about their product," he said, emphasizing each point with a gentle deal of fist on desk.

"The old belief that salesmen are born, not made, is an exploded myth," he declared. "Anyone with the ambition, the latent qualities and the courage to take responsibility can better himself."

Benwell is a firm believer that this must work from the inside out. In my notes I find almost every third word is "sincerity," a pretty good indication of that.

"Of course," he added, "persuasion is the key to this whole thing and personal appearance is certainly a factor. Hair must not be too long, clothes not too extreme, shoes shined. It's all part of selling."

He's a little reluctant to digest 30 years of teaching into digest form that would fit these confines, but if you're interested in the fundamental qualities of the Benwell-type salesman, a dream man I'd be glad to meet some day, here it is in a paragraph.

"The first qualities I'd advocate are sincerity to render service and ambition to get ahead. After that, the ability to study his line of goods and his competitor's to uncover the real needs of his prospect and to demonstrate that what he has to sell will fit that need. Add honesty and enthusiasm and you're on your way."

Kelowna In Bygone Days

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer, K.C., told a special committee appointed by the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association, on Wednesday in Kelowna, that the association will forward to him a request for a thorough investigation into the charges levelled by D. Godfrey Isaacs at the Vernon meeting last week, together with copies of the evidence on which the charges are based, he will carefully consider whether the investigation should be conducted by the Provincial Government. If it is concluded that it would be covered best by a Dominion Government investigation under the Combines Investigation Act then the government will press for it, he said.

Today marked the opening in Kelowna of the British Columbia Liberal Association convention, for which some 1,000 persons have gathered. They pay the law to the convention and chairman of the convention proceedings is Dr. W. J. Knox, Kelowna, provincial president.

Among the distinguished visitors to the city for the convention are Premier T. D. Pattullo, Cabinet Ministers G. M. Weir, G. S. Wismer, K. C. MacDonald, G. S. Pearson, John Hart, A. Wells Gray, W. J. Assin, F. M. MacPherson, and Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of national defence at Ottawa.

Contracts for the construction of a new ferry for the Kelowna-West bank service were let on Saturday last to Western Bridge Co., Vancouver, at $83,533 for the steel hull. Vivian Motors Ltd., also of Vancouver, submitted a successful bid of $26,816 for the engines. The public works department announcement was greeted with general satisfaction by the people of the city and district as well as those on the west side of the lake. The ferry will be assembled in Kelowna.

By a one-sided count of 12-4, Kelowna's ball club swept the boards clean last Sunday to defeat Beaverdell's Highland-Bell Miners for the second straight time and bring the South Okanagan baseball league championship back to the Orchard City.

Great snakes! A fisherman seeing snakes is not news, but when the snakes get right into the fish basket and try to steal fish, then that calls for action.

It happened to John L. Daily, Penticton, when he was fishing at Ka-leeden dam. When he opened his basket to drop in another fish he found a large rattlesnake curled up inside the creel trying to down a small fish. He killed the snake and continued his fishing.

At the close of nominations for trustees to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of the five-man school board, four of the original members completed the list. They were: E. D. Alexander, D. Chapman, Mrs. S. D. Treadgold and W. E. Adams. There being no further nominations, Returning Officer G. H. Dunn declared the four elected as school trustees. R. J. Gordon, former chairman of the board, could not be contacted in time to give his official consent to stand again, but it is hoped he may be able to return to the board.

It was feared that some of the exceptionally hot weather experienced during July would impair the vitality of flowering plants and would affect the quality of the exhibits at the Summer Flower Show of the Kelowna and District Horticultural Society, which was held on Saturday afternoon and evening in the lower hall of the L.O.O.F. Temple, but there was little trace to be seen of damage amid the glorious display of bloom. Here and there an odd petal showed a little sunken, but the general quality of the show was excellent.

A cheque was received from the Provincial Government for $3,088.21 being the proportion it had agreed to bear of the work carried out by the city in clearing out the channel of Mission Creek last spring.

Dr. F. E. Boyce and Miss M. Harvey, as representing her father, James Harvey, waited upon the council to request that Lawrence and Leon Avenues be opened and continued through from Ellis St. to Richter St. City Council is giving the matter its attention.

Coming Pro-Conservative Parley Will be Fourth Convention Called For Purpose of Naming New Leader

The coming national convention of the Progressive Conservative Party in Ottawa, September 30 and October 1 and 2, will be the fourth national convention of the party for the purpose of choosing a new leader.

From the time of Sir John A. Macdonald until 1927, no national conventions of the party were called for this purpose. The new leader was always selected by the senators and members of parliament representing the party, from among their own number.

The first national convention of the party was held in Winnipeg in October 1927, with bagpipes and drums heralding the entry of Hon. Hugh Guthrie, temporary leader of the party and chairman of the convention. On the platform were two former prime ministers—Sir Robert Borden and Right Hon. Arthur Meighen. There were also provincial premiers—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, of Ontario; Hon. E. N. Rhodes, of Nova Scotia, and Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, of New Brunswick.

At this convention, radio was used for the first time in Canada to cover a political gathering of this nature. Nominations for the leadership took place in an auditorium that was crowded with 1,601 voting delegates and alternates—five of each were chosen by each federal riding in those days. Guests brought the total attendance up to 7,000 according to the estimates of Winnipeg newspapers.

Bennett Chosen

Those nominated were: Hon. Robert Rogers, Manitoba; Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Ontario; C. H. Cahan, M.P., Quebec; Sir Henry Drayton, Ontario; Hon. R. B. Bennett, Alberta, and Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Ontario.

The second convention was called at the request of Right Hon. R. B. Bennett. The former prime minister stated he had called a national convention because it was impossible for him to continue as leader of the party.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen made an inspiring address referring to the threat of war and denouncing Prime Minister King's refusal to permit Britain to establish schools for the training of airmen in this country.

Mayor Ralph Webb, of Winnipeg, presented an antique French clock to Senator McRae for his services in organizing the 1927 convention. A portrait of Right Hon. R. B. Bennett was presented to him by 1800 delegates, R. S. White making the presentation.

Mr. Bennett reviewed the achievements of his government. He pointed out that he formed his government in 1930 when the depression had already seized upon the world, yet no banks failed in Canada; no insurance companies closed their offices or failed to pay claims. Britain went off the gold standard. Crop failures and low prices impoverished the West. Yet the unemployed were fed and clothed and housed, and new jobs were created in many thousands through tariff protection which many new industries, while the Ottawa Trade Agreements secured preferential markets for Canadian goods in Britain and British Commonwealth countries. His guiding principle, he declared, was to put Canada first and to develop this country's natural resources with social security for Canadians.

Nominations took place on the evening of the second day, and the following candidates, with their nominators and seconders, addressed the convention: M. A. MacPherson, Regina; Joseph H. Harris, Toronto; Denton Massey, Toronto; J. Earl Lawson, Toronto, and Dr. R. J. Manion, Fort William. Results of the first ballot were as follows: Manion 728, MacPherson 475, Harris 131, Massey 128, Lawson 105, Total 1,567.

Mr. Lawson dropped out of the running and a second ballot was held as a result of which Hon. R. J. Manion was elected leader with a clear majority over all other candidates combined.

1942 Convention

The 1942 national convention was made necessary by several factors. In the first place, Hon. R. J. Manion suffered a personal defeat in the 1940 general election, and retired from the leadership of the party. Then Senator the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen was asked to lead the party once more and resigned from the Senate to do so, but failed of election in York South.

It is worthy of note that at this meeting a change in practice was adopted. Up to his time the exclusive right to summon a national convention had been vested in the leader of the party, but at the 1942 convention, it was decided that the party's national association should have this exclusive right. For this reason, J. M. Macdonnell, K.C., M.P., president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, will open the 1948 convention in Ottawa.

A tip-off to the House Leader, made a vigorous speech in which he blamed the Liberal administration for its lack of leadership. He stressed the point that the government did not answer to the requirements of the day.

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, in his speech, referred bitterly to the fact that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation refused to broadcast the proceedings of the convention on the ground that it could air no political controversies over the radio in time of war. He charged that every speech made by a Liberal cabinet minister over the radio was loaded with controversial political material, and that the radio was the monopoly of a partisan government in office and was intended to be so by the Prime Minister.

Nominations for leadership were received and Hon. John Bracken was nominated by L. L. Smith, K.C. of Calgary, seconded by Gordon Graydon, M.P., Brampton.

Change Name

John G. Diefenbaker, K.C., M.P., Prince Albert, was nominated by David James Walker, Toronto; seconded by R. L. Hanbridge, Kerrobert, Sask.

Howard Green, M.P., Vancouver, was nominated by Cecil G. Frost, Lindsay, Ontario; seconded by Col. A. J. Brooks, M.P., Sussex, N.B.

Murdock Alexander MacPherson, Regina, was nominated by Capt. Norman Rawson, Hamilton; seconded by Joseph Hill, North Portal, Sask.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Vancouver, was nominated by George H. Andrews, Vancouver; seconded by Arthur Burrows, Edmonton.

The convention sat until 11:43 p.m. to hear all the candidates, their nominators, and seconders. Results of the first ballot were: Bracken 420, MacPherson 222, Diefenbaker 120, Green 88, Stevens 20, Total 870.

Another ballot was required and Messrs. Stevens and Green withdrew from the contest. As a result, Hon. John Bracken was announced as having an absolute majority of the votes. He had polled 539; Mr. MacPherson had 255, and Mr. Diefenbaker had 79 votes. The total cast was 872. Mr. MacPherson, seconded by Mr. Diefenbaker moved that the election of Mr. Bracken be declared unanimous and the motion was carried.

On the motion of Earl Lawson, Ontario, seconded by Col. Alan Cockram, the name of the Party was changed to that of the Progressive Conservative Party.

On horse, on foot or on parade, 50 Royal Canadian Army Cadets were on a happy hunting ground during their three fun-filled weeks camping in the shadows of towering Cascade Mountain, high in the Rockies.

The teen-aged boys, drawn from every province in the Dominion, pitched their tents on the old Indian Camping Site, one mile from Banff. The cloud-tipped crest of Cascade Mountain sheltered their flag. Nearby, the famed Bow River meandered lazily along.

From this base of "operations," the Army Cadets visited more points of interest and recreation than paying tourists. Map reading, first aid and wireless training carried them to Sundance Canyon, up Mount Eisenhower, to placid Lake Louise and countless other beauty spots. Recreation brought memorable trail rides over western ridges, fishing, sight-seeing and Cadet campfire songs in the evening. . . . Fires that gleamed brighter when more than 200 girls from Banff School of Fine Arts visited the Cadets and joined in the sing-song.

The special Cadet Camp was operated at the expense of the Army to reward the 50 Master Cadets selected to attend. A good time with good food was the order of the day—every day.

Tents were folded and the boys broke camp on August 21st to head for their homes from coast to coast. On departure, every Cadet carried with him a camera and film that in future years would tell the story of a boyhood dream come true.

NUMBER 2—"THE RIDGE WHERE THE WEST COMMENCES"—On a

14-mile trail ride, four Army Cadets push their horses along a Rocky Mountain ridge, 8,000 feet above sea level. This was not the softest recreation for Army "tenderfoots." It was a saddle-weary, though complaining group who drank their 40-ounce daily ration of milk from a "can" when pack horses brought up the noontime meal.

NUMBER 3—SWEET MUSIC FOR HUNGRY CADETS—At the "foot" of the 6:30 reveille, the camp bugler was sometimes "slightly" unpopular. But never was heard a complaint when the bugle blast sounded mess call. Seen above is the mad scramble for the mess tent, a daily ritual for hungry, healthy cadets.

NUMBER 4—COLORS ON PARADE—Forming up on the highway beside the camp entrance, kilted Army Cadets hoisted their colors and stopped tourist traffic for a half-mile in each direction. Passing vacationers grabbed cameras and photographed the color party for nearly an hour.

NUMBER 5—THE ONE THAT GOT AWAY—A lone Cadet, fly casting in the Bow River rapids, said the fishing was good but "they all got away." Fifty Cadets with an expert instructor spent a half-day on the fishing grounds. The catch: one trout and the knowledge that it takes more than a "wish" to bag the elusive Rocky Mountain fish.

NUMBER 6—A LIVE MODEL IN A PEACEFUL POSE—There is nothing stuffed about this deer. In the wild animal paddock near Banff, Cadets met their greatest surprise when they found the animals were not so wild. The deer shown here completely ignored the battery of cameras that clicked as Cadets gathered around.

NUMBER 7—A HIKE UP MOUNT "IKE"—On the hiking trail at the base of famed Mount Eisenhower, Cadets pause to look back over the Bow Valley. At this level they are 7,000 feet up with little worry about the tired feet they were later dragging toward the rocky crest of the snow-capped mountain.

PENTICTON—By virtue of a 2-1 victory over Summerland, Penticton captured the Teen Town boys' softball trophy for this year. Kelowna, Oliver and Osoyoos teams failed to show up for the tourney.

LACROSSE JUVES
LOSE ONLY ONE

Kelowna's supremacy in the juvenile lacrosse ranks has been fairly well established this year. The local lads have won five of the six games they have played against outfalls from Vernon, Armstrong and Kamloops. Their sole loss was by one goal at Armstrong recently.

Victory number five was marked up at Kamloops Wednesday night when Kelowna trounced the hometown seven 15-5. Playoffs now are being arranged.

Kelowna's juniors were also to have played in Kamloops Wednesday night but owing to transportation troubles and because some of the players went to Salmon Arm that same night with the senior B Bruins, the team didn't reach Kamloops.

SPORTS SPHERE

Bruins Play Aces Tonight

Rain, the bugbear of outdoor sports this summer, knocked Friday night's proposed Salmon Arm Aces-Kelowna Bruins senior B lacrosse playoff fixture for a loop. This was the second time last week that games at Kelowna in the best-of-five semi-finals had to be called off.

Bruins now will take their one-game lead into the City Park box tonight. Only game completed to date was at Salmon Arm Wednesday when Bruins came out in front by a 9-4 score. Game time is 8:30.

GIRL SOFTBALL
CHAMPS NEED
TRAVEL HELP

With the provincial junior girls softball championships scheduled for the coast this coming week-end, the interior champs, Kelowna High School, are in danger of being called out on strikes unless some transportation is forthcoming. Those who are able to assist are asked to get in touch with any of the three following officials: Carl Pohlman, Bud Fraser or Coach Jim Smith.

But the East Kelowna girls won't have any travel worries, according to word received here from Don Fraser, president, B. C. Amateur Softball Association. He said East Kelowna's bid for a chance in the B.C. senior B women's championship, according to the BCASA head, playoffs at the coast already are three weeks behind schedule, owing to inclement weather at the coast. There was some doubt whether the finals could be run off this year.

JUNIOR TITLE
BY 11-5 WIN

Less than 100 fans witnessed some of the best junior baseball of the season Thursday evening at Recreation Park as Kodiaks trimmed Clippers 11-5 in the deciding game of their best-of-three series for the city minor championship. Eddie Walters received sound support from his team-mates in the free-hitting show. Pete McInroy was on the mound for four innings for the Clippers and Fred Stark took over in the fifth. Game was called at the end of seven innings because of darkness.

And so, the junior men are ready to tuck away their gear for another year. But directors of the Kelowna Boys Athletic Club plan some form of entertainment soon for the boys of the three teams that started out this year.

TEAMS REACH FINALS
KAMLOOPS—Kamloops C.Y.O. and Revelstoke Spikes won their semi-final rounds and will go into a best-of-three final series against each other for the North Okanagan Mainline Baseball League title.

Memories of Former Years Brought Back to Local Tennis Enthusiasts
As Experts Give Exhibition Here

Memories of former years when some of the best tennis stars in the Pacific Northwest used to perform on the Kelowna Lawn Tennis Club courts were brought back on Wednesday when local enthusiasts witnessed stellar exhibition play by two Vancouver masters, Walt Stohlberg and Jimmy Bardsley.

Capacity crowds, filling bleachers on both sides of one of the new Rosemead Avenue courts, applauded generously as the two net stars stomped off here in the course of an exhibition tour of the interior. Stohlberg and Bardsley first teamed up to take on the local doubles champs, Ernie Winter and Bus Taggart. Kelowna's team was no match for the Coast stars, going down 6-4, 6-3.

Veteran City Sportsman Catcher 13 1/4 Pound Trout in Fish Derby

Proceeds From Kelowna and District Derby Go Toward Fish Conservation

Sunday's Kelowna and District Rod and Gun Club fish derby drew some 75 entrants and during most of the day, Okanagan Lake was speckled with craft of every description. Fishermen of all ages and both sexes were in on the fun and when it was all over at the final weighing in at 7:30 p.m., actually a half hour's grace was given and the deadline was extended to 8 p.m.—veteran sportsman Joe Spurrier was awarded the big prize of the day.

Mr. Spurrier made his 13 1/4-pound trout catch near the mouth of Bear Creek while trolling from Harry Mitchell's "Spendthrift". The winner had several anxious moments getting the prize catch on board the big boat.

For his effort, Mr. Spurrier was awarded a tackle box with one dozen assorted Game Guide products, donated by Game Guide Products. Other winners and their prizes were:

Most fish—S. Yamonaka, six fish, from two pounds to three and a half pounds.

Second largest fish—John Gontle, 10 pounds, 13 ounces, credit $13.50 at Spurriers Ltd.

Junior (under 18 years) catch—Jackie James, age 5, five pounder, prize donated by Perry Boothhouse.

Ladies' prize—Mrs. Ted Adkins, 4 lbs. 10 oz., handbag from Bon Marche.

Coarse fish prize—Police Constable Wally Garbut, Thermo-Jug, donated by Treadgold Sporting Goods.

Officials report there were many fish taken ranging from seven to nine pounds. Several coarse fish were also taken, including two lingcods.

Weighing-in scales were loaned by Felix Sutton. Proceeds of the derby will be used for fish conservation.

KIDSGO officials hope to make this an annual affair.

Trophy for the B.C. senior B men's softball championship to be decided here this coming week-end now is on display at Percy Harding and Sons, Bernard Ave. The battered old mug, known as the British Columbia Softball Association Senior B championship trophy, has been held continuously by coast squads since it was first put up in 1937. Alberta Lumber Ltd., Vancouver, were the first winners.

Other winners shown on the trophy are:
1938—Ivanhoe Hotel, Vancouver.
1939—Britannia Beach.
1940—Ivanhoe Hotel, Vancouver.
1941—Russell Hotel, New Westminster.
1942—South Hill.
1943—Canadian Army, New Westminster.
1944—Hamilton Bridge, Vancouver.
1945—West Coast Shipbuilders, Vancouver.
1946—Elks Clippers, Nanaimo.
1947—Nelson Fisheries Co., Ltd., Vancouver.
1948—?????

Name Finalists Soon
Senior B men and junior boys coast finalists who will appear here against Club 13 Kelowna B interior champs and Kelowna School Supplies (interior junior champions) are expected to be decided within the next two or three days. Playoffs between the Mainland and Vancouver Island Divisions, BCASA, are now in progress.

Main worries now for officials are finances and the weatherman's disposition. Bud Fraser, registrar and liaison between the coast and interior BCASA divisions, said, "We have climbed out of a very heavy financial limb and we are relying solely on the generosity of fans, on a collection basis, to put this series over."

After all, this is the first time provincial championships in softball have been decided here. We need the help of John Q. Fan if this is going to be a success. "Some 261 male and female players in Kelowna and District were signed up this year, affiliated with the B.C. Softball Association and given amateur cards. I think that's a pretty good indication of the interest in the game here and I am wondering if any other branch of sport here can top that."

Boost to Kelowna
Officials hope to be able to stage most of the senior B and junior playoffs (both two-out-of-three at Athletic Oval. However, the third senior B game will be a feature of the Kelowna Stampede and will be run off Labor Day at Recreation Park.

Little co-operation from the weather man and support of fans, "this year's championship play will be a real boost to Kelowna and softball generally," Fraser concluded.

SCOTTISH PRO
KAMLOOPS—Scottish-born and trained Dennis Blanc has taken up his appointment here as golf pro at Kamloops Golf and Country Club.

ANOTHER SMART
LUNCH COUNTER
OPENS IN CITY

"The Rendezvous" Will Feature Fish and Chips and Light Lunches

That "The Rendezvous" will soon become a popular meeting spot for Kelowna residents, is the fond hope of Wally Siemens, genial proprietor of Kelowna's newest lunch counter, opening soon at 615 Harvey Avenue, near the new high school. Located in a smart new business block, "The Rendezvous" is modern in every respect. There is both booth and counter service and all equipment is completely modern. The booths are particularly attractive with the blue upholstery and curved seating arrangement, affording spacious room for diners.

Mr. Siemens, though a young man, has had extensive managerial experience and is fully qualified to offer his patrons, as he says, "service and quality that will speak for itself."

A former resident of Vancouver, Mr. Siemens has lived here about a year. "The Rendezvous" will feature fish and chips, sea foods, dairy products, sandwiches and ten inch hot dogs. Mr. Siemens adds a further promise that here, too, one will find the best coffee in town as he is featuring a special quality coffee never before tasted in Kelowna. The opening date will be announced in the advertisement on this page, there is a special fish and chips get acquainted offer for adults and free ice cream cones for the school children.

Free vaccination clinic for infants and pre-school children will be held this Friday from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the basement of the Baptist Church, Ellis St.

This is one of the many free services offered by the Provincial Department of Health through its local Okanagan Valley Health Unit.

PLAYOFF HOPES
FADE FOR HUB
CITY CLIPPERS

Vernon Tigers won their second straight playoff game when they trounced Kamloops Royal Clippers 18-7 at Kamloops Thursday night, but the price of victory may be high.

Unless Kamloops' protest is upheld by the league, the Clippers now are out of the playoffs.

Vernon Tigers won their third straight game defeating Clippers 9-7 at Vernon Saturday night.

Starry Sarge Sammartino, the prolific scorer of the Sammartino trio, formerly of Trail, suffered an injured arm in the first half and may be out the rest of the Vernon-Kamloops series and possibly the rest of the playoffs. It was at first feared he had suffered a fracture, but later examination showed his injured member was badly bruised.

Referees Augie Ciancone, Kelowna Pro-Rec instructor, and E. Morton, Salmon Arm, had a busy time handling out penalties to keep the rough stuff in check. Both sides started to lay it on from the start and the refs were credited with a good job.

Thursday's loss left Clippers on the brink of elimination in the best-of-five semi-finals for the right to go into the finals against the winner of the current Kelowna-Salmon Arms series.

But there is still a chance the first Kamloops-Vernon game may be thrown out. The league's protest committee of the Interior Lacrosse Association: President Alvin Weddell, Kamloops, T. Irwin, Kamloops, and T. E. Vuill, Vernon, is expected to deal shortly with protests filed by both the Tigers and Clippers on the first game.

That Tuesday night fixture, staged in Vernon, was played under protest from the beginning, both sides arguing the eligibility of certain players. Kamloops also protested against actions of Referees Watt and Audley File, both of Armstrong, in penalizing two players during the last quarter.

After the penalties were handed out, Clippers' coach, Doug Ross, pulled his team off the floor. Vernon was leading 15-9 at the time.

RED SOX SPLIT
DOUBLE HEADER

First senior baseball doubleheader in Kelowna this year ended in a split for the local Red Sox.

Hee McKenzie, masterful twirler with Kamloops Legion, bested Sox pitcher Harold Cousins in a keen pitching duel to give the Hub City boys a 2-2 exhibition triumph over the locals in the first game of the day.

A fast Japanese team from Greenwood, B. C., came up against Dick Murray's bunch in the second game, also over the nine-inning route. Wally Lesmeister marked up his second victory in four days setting the Japanese boys' down 5-3.

Dave Newton was number two man in the first game, while Eddie Kielbiski took over catching chores in the second.

A good Sunday crowd had no complaints about the good brand of ball in the city's first twin bill. Kelowna Red Sox are taking part in a tournament at Oliver this coming Labor Day week-end.

LOCAL BOWLING
LEAGUES WILL
NAME OFFICERS

Election of officers and drawing up plans for the coming season will be conducted at the annual general meetings this week of the ladies' and mixed fivepin bowling leagues. The ladies' loop will meet at the Toc H Hall, Doyle Ave., on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The mixed group will meet at the same place, the following evening (Thursday) also at 7:30.

Representatives from each team wishing to take part in league bowling are asked to attend.

U.B.C. ELEVEN
HERE THIS WEEK

University of British Columbia's cricket team is making a playing tour of the Okanagan this week.

The touring eleven will play at Naramata tomorrow, in Kelowna on Wednesday and against a Vernon and Valley team, probably in Vernon, on Saturday.

S. SAMMARTINO
TOPS SCORING

VERNON—Sarge Sammartino led the Vernon Tigers' scoring parade by a wide margin, according to official figures here. Sarge amassed 66 points with 51 goals and 15 assists for the nine games he played.

Roy Beech was runner-up for the honors during league boxla games with 22 goals and 20 assists for 42 points.

LADIES' GOLF MEET
PENTICTON—Interior ladies' golf tournament will be held here Sept. 11 and 12.

Top-Notch Rider

The cream of North America's cowboys will be taking part in Kelowna's Fifth Annual Stampede here on September 6 and 7, and some high calibre entertainment is assured in view of the fact it will be the last Canadian show that cow-punchers will have an opportunity to make points in the Cowboy Protective Association championship. One of the top-notch riders on the continent, is Wilf Gerlitz, of Cochrane, veteran performer at Canadian and U.S. rodeos. In the above picture, Wilf is putting up a terrific ride on "Buzard," at the Calgary Stampede held last July. He and many other outstanding bronco riders will be here for the two-day stampede.

HEALTHY LIFE

Aims of Canadian Youth Hostels Are to Encourage People to Travel

"Come Hostelling... for fitness and fellowship!" This is the slogan of the Canadian Youth Hostellers all over the country. And Miss Muriel Nichols, president of the Pacific Region Canadian Youth Hostellers, echoes this statement as she pedals her way all over B.C.

"It's simply great and I love it!" says Miss Nichols and she ought to know... she's been doing it for over six years. Miss Nichols is at present travelling through the Okanagan Valley to see all the possibilities for more hostels and more hostellers. At present there are hostels in Summerland, and Armstrong, and just isn't enough," says Miss Nichols, "for bicycle-minded people." There used to be a hostel in Vernon, but last year it was destroyed by fire, and as yet, has not been rebuilt.

Miss Nichols cannot understand the lack of hostellers in Kelowna, when there is such beautiful scenery, and "there are certainly

Hemlines the Same

Indicate Style Trends Moderate this Autumn

FALL fashion previews are commanding the attention of ladies who are wondering what changes fall '48 will find in the new look. Authorities predict moderate trends.

Hemlines, which brought rulers out of the cupboard a year ago, show no radical change this season. Popular length is 12 inches from the floor for daytime wear. For afternoon and evening the hemline varies from calf-length to ankle-length. Most designers make the dress length that looks best, taking into consideration the stature of the wearer.

Interest will be focussed on the back of costumes this season. Empire and Directoire coats and dresses point the way to a new silhouette. Coats have fullness from a yoke or a line just below the shoulder, and waistlines, slightly raised in front, follow the natural line at the back. Back fullness in skirts which are pencil slim in front is achieved by a slight flare in the cut or through gathers or a drawing under a yoke.

Fabrics range from stiff slipper satins to softest crepe. Tie-silk is also being used. Jersey and knitted fabrics, fleeces and tweeds are being shown.

Hats are expected to be simpler this season, relying on shape and texture for their beauty rather than elaborate trimming. Chapeau may be represented in bonnets, pillboxes, Directoire toques and other classic shapes. There are fine, soft velours, shaggy beavers, felts and velvets. Chin straps anchor many of the fall season's creations which may be small feather fancy or a wisp of veiling.

Shoe Trends
Two extremes of shoe fashions are high-buttoned shoes and heavy suede wedges. Empire and Directoire silhouettes call for shoes that rise high on the ankle with straps and lacing. High necklines also call for high cut shoes. Full and semi-full dresses for fall and winter look right with high-heeled shoes. Newest heel is the Louis. Lacing and strappings are prominent as decorations.

Several manufacturers are showing spats and in France spats are designed to match gloves. Some styles are merely "shells" over the toes.

General style trends to note are drawing backs to skirts and rousing necklines, cords and ties instead of belts, apron treatments, uneven hemlines in afternoon and evening clothes, side-saddle skirts, cut interest on sleeves, shawl and stately collars, novelty pleuplums, extensive braiding, unusual pockets.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Winsby, formerly of Vancouver, arrived in the city recently and plan to reside here. Mr. Winsby has commenced his new duties as a pharmacist at Willis's Drug Store.

Mr. Stanley Kennell is leaving Tuesday for the Copp Shoe managers' convention in Vancouver.

This is an appeal for eye-glasses. Any kind of eye-glasses. The Sir Charles Tupper chapter, I.O.D.E., are collecting old glasses, which will be sent to the factory to be made over. The returned glasses receive for these glasses will be used mainly for rehabilitation work and bursaries for summer school students at the University of British Columbia.

Mrs. Roy Phipps of the Vancouver Chapter is at present visiting in Kelowna with Mr. Phipps, and is an enthusiastic worker. It all started during the war when the proceeds went for war work and evacuees. Following the war, the chapter continued their good work by running rehabilitation centres and assisting the veterans. Recently they inaugurated a bursary at the University of British Columbia for teachers taking summer school courses.

lop most and their basic mental attitudes to life will be largely formed. This good start is important, and one psychologist has claimed that it is a wise investment to treat a child's diseased tonsils before his schooldays begin than to buy him a new set of school clothes.

Eyes, ears, nose, throat, teeth, height and weight, should all be checked before or at least as soon as children first start to school, and this is also the time when reinforcing injections protecting against diphtheria, smallpox and whooping cough should be given. If Johnny needs new glasses he will take a full schedule of after-school dancing, singing, elocution, or music lessons mapped out for them. It's better for Johnny to practice his man relations after school with the neighborhood children at the price of practicing his violin lessons, if he has to work hard at getting along with others. The educator and mental hygienist both agree that if your child can't or doesn't want to play with his fellows, there's some reason for it.

Must Look After Self
How about toilet and general health training? Your child will be out of step with his playmates and a potential disease spreader if he hasn't learned to protect others from his coughs and sneezes and keep himself clean. He'll be a nuisance if he can't manage his own shoelaces and buttons or go to the bathroom by himself. And what is often overlooked he'll be in danger if he doesn't understand traffic signals or can't cross streets safely by himself.

Correct Schedules
Actually many educators are inclined to believe that it isn't only the physical presence of defects which causes the injuries which might be permanent. Instead, we must consider injuries to the spirit of the handicapped child who isn't at all sure of himself in a perplexing world but would like to be struggling through his first year of school.

And what about schedules? Sometimes children who are apparently bursting with energy, can be at the same time over-worked and undernourished. The child who still counts on mid-day naps to preserve his energy will have to alter his routine gradually to get enough sleep at night—12 hours is the average for each six-year-old. The pre-school youngster who turns up his nose at food in regular meal-times but is quite ready to eat in irregular hours, will also have to be put gradually onto a timetable. Nutritionally adequate breakfasts, timed incidentally to the child's needs, will not be late for school, are especially important. Also, a child who eats a lot of food may be eating incorrect food and getting no benefit from his healthy appetite. A survey of the food he needs is important, as school and play both fall into the category of hard work.

Because children have no union protecting them against long hours, many are literally in danger of being overworked if they have a too full schedule of after-school dancing, singing, elocution, or music lessons mapped out for them. It's better for Johnny to practice his man relations after school with the neighborhood children at the price of practicing his violin lessons, if he has to work hard at getting along with others. The educator and mental hygienist both agree that if your child can't or doesn't want to play with his fellows, there's some reason for it.

Parents Key to Cure
Perhaps it is unfortunate that mental health, like satisfactory bodily growth, can't be plotted on a graph, because if parents don't meet or understand these needs, Johnny and too many other children like him will either give in meekly to life or display forms of what adults refer to as "undesirable behaviour" in order to get the recognition they crave—and who can blame them? It is in the schoolroom when a child is separated from the home which shapes him and placed in a group of other developing individuals that his particular problems become apparent.

"He will grow out of it" is an inaccurate phrase. As he grows older a child doesn't grow out of mental problems, manifest in such small forms of behaviour as nail-biting—the way he grows out of his old winter overcoat. It is all illogical to expect him to "get over" diseased tonsils or decayed teeth.

The cure lies in the scope of adults playing a guiding role in the child's life, and this is the understanding of his needs, and, as far as possible, the satisfying of them. It is well worth while to seek the advice of competent physicians or psychologists if a child's happiness is at stake.

Give Johnny a chance by seeing that he starts his school life, which is a smaller edition of his post-school world, with a healthy body, a healthy mind, and healthy habits. Perhaps he will never have a chance to begin leading a full-valued life otherwise.

Anglo parking in parallel zones cost M. A. Grozelle, Winfield, $2.50 by waiver August 23. V. C. Jarvis was given suspended sentence upon payment of costs of $2 on a similar traffic charge.

Fine of $10 and costs was imposed in city police court August 23 on Douglas N. Miller for exceeding the 30 miles an hour speed limit.

Failure to produce a driver's licence at the request of a police officer drew suspended sentence for William Heron when he appeared in city police court August 20.

SWIVEL CHAIR FARMING

By "Agricola"

Like many other Canadians I have a weakness for sweet corn. Accordingly I feel that I owe a special debt of gratitude to the plant breeders who have been busy improving this delectable vegetable. A few years ago I had the privilege of going through the corn variety trials at the Experimental Station with Billy May and Pete Pearson. As you might expect, these expert gardeners have done an excellent job of growing the corn.

I have always regarded Golden Bantam as the standard of quality in sweet corn. Accordingly I was delighted to find that plant breeders at the Central Experimental Station have produced the modern Golden Bantam type corn varieties and hybrids maturing both earlier and later than the original Golden Bantam. For example, vegetable breeders at the Central Experimental Station, Ottawa, have produced the Dorinny and Banting varieties.

Very detailed records regarding the performance of each variety and hybrid. They not only weigh the crop but also measure quite a large number of cobs to determine the range of size. They record the number of rows of kernels on the cob and whether or not the cobs are well filled.

Variety trials do not stop with the field records but are carried through cooking and freezing tests. This work is done in the fruit and vegetable products laboratory under the direction of Charlie Strachan. When I went to the laboratory I found Adrian Moyls, Frank Plunkett and Clarence Lackey very busy indeed blanching corn for frozen pack tests. The air was filled with the appetizing aroma characteristic of corn being prepared for the table. However, Adrian assured me that none of it was actually ready to eat and that I would have to come back during the winter when a cooking test is in progress in order to find out for myself which of the twenty odd varieties and hybrids have the finest flavour. He did tell me, however, that in his own opinion, Dorinny is hard to beat for an early variety and Vincross is just about ideal for a late crop.

WOMEN LIKE SHORT CUTS IN CLEANING
Experts Suggest Housewife Should Take Stock Before Starting Fall Cleaning

"To upset the entire house, unless you're planning to refurbish at the same time, it is old-fashioned as the horse and buggy," believes Dr. Elaine Knowles Weaver, assistant professor of Home Economics at Teachers College, Columbia University. "Before you start, take stock of the household and get rid of all excess baggage collected since the previous cleaning period," Dr. Weaver stressed. "And plan the task systematically."

All of this may be true in theory but if homemakers will only practice a degree of moderation, there is something intensely satisfying about a house that is clean all at the same time—a regular old-fashioned house cleaning.

And the only way that we mean old-fashioned is in the sense of a complete household "going-over." For in every other respect, smart home-makers this year are due for a really new-fashioned house cleaning. It was not long ago that every type of household cleaning required a different product and because of this, a variety of items suitable for various phases of housecleaning.

New Product
However, women in 1948 have a real treat in store for them. Tide has just come on the market. This many purpose washing product is practically a one-man army where all types of dirt are concerned. It solves all laundry and dish washing problems, cleans window panes, removes grease and dirt, is excellent for rugs and upholstery, and may even be used for household pests. Tide gets all clothes cleaner, particularly heavy working clothes. Yet it is also ideal for washable colors as well. In fact, it brightens dulled colors because it washes away clinging film left by other washings and yet leaves no hard water film of its own.

The exceptional cleaning properties make it ideal for dish washing, too. The way it cuts grease and eliminates film makes it an outstanding product among cleaning agents. Dishes require no wiping, they rinse and dry with such a clear sheen. Any product that simplifies the dish washing problem will be heartily welcomed by all modern home-makers.

well, about five and a half miles from Lloydminster, came in as a "gusher" last week, has stimulated interest in the Kelvan Oil Syndicate, a local oil concern which owns adjoining property.

R. B. Gibbs, 575 Central Avenue, stated the Kelvan Oil Syndicate, which was formed July of this year, has mineral rights on 22,000 acres in the Lloydminster field. The first well was spudded in this week, and plans are being made for an additional 15 wells.

The Van-Lloyd No. 4 well is located on Section 2, Township 48, Range 20, west of the third meridian on the Saskatchewan side. Property owned by the Kelvan syndicate is on Section 21, Township 47, Range 27, west of the third meridian.

'Little Cherry' Disease Causes Concern in B.C. Fruit Growing Circles

APPROXIMATELY 85 per cent of the trees in the Kootenay district are infected with "Little Cherry"—a virus disease which made its first known appearance in that area, and which is causing considerable concern in Okanagan fruit growing circles. This estimate was made recently by W. R. Foster, plant pathologist, who during cherry picking time—the only time during which diagnosis of the disease may be made—toured the Kootenay district. The disease does not wipe out the cherry crop, but it reduces the quality so that the infected cherries are suitable only for jam production.

While this disease has not reached the Okanagan Valley, it has, however, spread south of the border into eastern Washington cherry producing areas, and at a recent meeting of the Wenatchee Valley cherry producers, only one grower opposed the recommendation of compulsory removal of "Little Cherry" infected trees.

Under the provincial government's "Plant Protection Act", it is mandatory for growers in the Okanagan Valley to remove trees infected with Little Cherry. Failure to comply with regulations leaves the grower open to a fine not exceeding $250 and not less than $50.

For several years, Dr. R. C. Palmer and his associates, Summerland Experimental Farm, have been conducting a considerable amount of research on the virus disease, but to date no remedy has been found. The subject has been discussed at BCFAA conventions, and emphasis has been laid on a voluntary removal program.

In a survey of the Kootenay area, Mr. Foster estimated 25,000 of the 30,000 cherry trees are now infected. The closest approach of the disease to the Okanagan Valley is at Nakusp, and fortunately for Okanagan cherry producers, a range of mountains separates Nakusp from this district.

The action of Wenatchee Valley cherry producers in recommending destruction of infected trees was termed "one of the most important steps taken in the history of the Washington state horticultural association. Only one grower opposed the recommendation as the meeting acted to inform the State Department of Agriculture that it was in favor of removal, by law, of trees found to have fruit virus."

A large delegation of Wenatchee growers will attend a meeting with Yakima cherry producers within the next three weeks to formulate further action on the tree-removal drive.

It was estimated that even if all infected trees in the Wenatchee district were removed this year, there would still be 1,500 to 2,000 diseased trees left next season. After that the infection would decrease to about 500-1,000 in 1950 and 300-500 in 1951 if all trees were removed each year that were found to have the virus.

The following figures were released on the 1948 Little Cherry study which was made co-operatively by the State Department of Agriculture, Washington State College and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

music and those who took part in the barn dancing did it so well that they set all feet tapping and more than one expressed the desire that they'd like to go to a good old hoe-down again.

Wally Johnson, as the barn dance caller, called it expertly and loud as he could hear... the chorus girls also danced in unison on several occasions and although more practice was apparently needed, they nevertheless did well.

It is difficult to pay tribute to all who participated in the "Fun For You" show but if any are left out it is not because they did not merit mention but rather that space is at a premium. The entire cast was excellent... the little tap dancers... the school girls... the finale... which was most impressive and made you feel glad to be a Canadian, the little people, portraying as they did Canadians in all walks of life, taps by Jimmy Scantland and Britannia as symbolized by Mabel Boyer, and finally the reading of an historical script by Harry White concluded a show that made people glad they had come.

Finally, last but by no means least—and in the opinion of many, THE HOLLYWOOD BEAUTIES, as portrayed by prominent young Kelowna business men was an absolute riot, the hit of the show. It would be difficult to pick the most riotous "character" although Jack Gordon as Marlene Dietrich was a panic. Wearing a most revealing red gown, with a cigarette holder as long as a ruler, his Dietrich act brought huge bursts of laughter from everyone. Bill, brother, nearly rolled off his seat in the grandstand, laughing as at brother Jack's performance.

Harold Arneaneau as Betty Grable was also a riot. Art Burch as Lana Turner equally so. Jack Thompson as Mae West also brought forth peals of laughter, while Gravel Gertie with her long yellow hair and fugitive from a cake-of-lifebody administration, as portrayed by McGavin's Ross Donaldson, also caused the gallery to rock with mirth... and finally Hugh Shireff as Gypsy Rose Lee, showed no modesty in his (garden me her) revealing performance and captivating beauty. Yes, you missed a good show!

At the closing of the program Miss Maude Prest, director of the

RUTLAND MAY HAVE SCHOOL ZONE SIGNS

RUTLAND—The executive of the Rutland Board of Trade met in the library room of the Community Hall last Friday evening to consider a number of matters that had arisen during the summer season, and to make plans for a quarterly general meeting.

Discussing the question of safety of children in the school zones, the board decided to take action themselves on a previous resolution recommending the erection of life-size figures of school children as the warning signs to motorists, similar to those in use across the line. A committee of the board was appointed to investigate the matter, and if official sanction can be obtained, construct the signs.

September 15 was set for the general meeting, which will consist of a supper at 7 p.m. followed by an address and general business. A letter was read from the anti-municipality committee, and executive arranged for a reply to be sent, and both the letter and the reply be published.
